

Murderous Maths: The Brain-Bending Basics that Will Make You Question Everything

If you think mathematics is boring, then you haven't met Kjartan Poskitt. Poskitt is the author of the Murderous Maths series of books, which use humor and puzzles to teach mathematics. The series has been translated into over 20 languages and has sold over 10 million copies worldwide.

The Murderous Maths books are full of brain-bending puzzles that will challenge your thinking and make you question everything you thought you knew about mathematics. For example, in one puzzle, Poskitt asks you to find the sum of all the numbers from 1 to 100. You might think that the answer is 5050, but Poskitt shows you that the answer is actually 10100.
