The story follows the adventures of Haruhi Fujioka, a bright and scholarship-driven commoner who finds herself entangled with the Host Club, a group of wealthy and eccentric boys who cater to the needs of the school's female students.

Haruhi's journey begins when she stumbles upon the Host Club's meeting room and accidentally breaks an expensive vase. Unable to pay for the damages, she is forced to join the club as a host in order to work off her debt. However, Haruhi's androgynous appearance and lack of knowledge about the club's activities quickly lead to her being mistaken for a boy by the other members.

Despite her initial reluctance, Haruhi gradually adapts to her new role and forms close bonds with the other hosts. There's Tamaki Suoh, the charming and flamboyant president; Kyoya Ootori, the intelligent and calculating vice-president; Mori Takemi, the quiet and stoic bodyguard; Honey Senpai, the adorable and energetic sweets enthusiast; and the twins Hikaru and Kaoru Hitachiin, the mischievous and playful troublemakers.

As Haruhi spends more time with the Host Club, she begins to challenge the rigid gender roles and social hierarchies that exist at Ouran Academy. She learns to embrace her own identity and finds acceptance from the hosts, who come to appreciate her for her intelligence, kindness, and strength.
